Report of the Editor, *Canadian Slavonic Papers*Oleh S. Ilnytzkyj May 28, 2006

Publication

Canadian Slavonic Papers published two double issues this year, for a total of 493 pages:

□ Vol. XLVII, Nos. 1-2, March-June 2005

□ Vol. XLVII, Nos. 3-4, September—December 2005

The latter issue was devoted to the 2004 Ukrainian Presidential Elections and was guest edited by Professor Bohdan Harasymiv, to whom I extend my sincere thanks. Canadian Slavonic Papers has received an offer from "ibidem Publishers" to reprint this issue in Stuttgart as a separate volume, in a multivolume project that currently has the working title "Aspects of the Orange Revolution."

The next issue of CSP (Vol. XLVIII, Nos. 1-2, March-June 2006) will go to print in June and will be mailed out to subscribers in July. Canadian Slavonic Papers continues to appear, more or less, on time.

Subscriptions

Currently, Canadian Slavonic Papers has 646 worldwide subscribers (individuals and institutions).

Canadian Slavonic Papers Web Archive

The Editor and Serhiy Kozakov (U of A's Humanities Computing Program) have completed a web-based archive to all issues of Canadian Slavonic Papers from 1956 (47 volumes). The archive is now being tested and will be accessible to CAS members in the late summer or early fall for an additional annual fee of $5.00. The archive contains a search function, allows for downloading of individual articles or entire back issues. Payments will be accepted through PayPal. We anticipate that this will be a major resource for researchers throughout the world. The next stage will be to produce a CD-ROM version of this archive for libraries and institutions.

Administration

Since June 2005, the Canadian Slavonic Papers office at the University of Alberta has been in the very capable hands of our new Editorial Assistant, Ms. Svitlana Pavlunik. Ms. Pavlunik is a doctoral candidate, specializing in Ukrainian Literature in the Department of Modern Languages and Cultural Studies. During the academic year she works 12 hours a week. She has been a tremendous help to the journal and I would like to thank her for a job well done. In a very short time, she has become indispensable to the journal and the Editor.

Canadian Slavonic Papers also has a new Book Review Editor for Language and Linguistics. As of January 2006, this task is being performed by Gary Toops, Professor of Russian and Linguistics, Department of Modern and Classical Languages and Literatures at Wichita State University, Wichita Kansas. Prof. Toops received his Ph.D. in Russian and Slavic linguistics and early Slavic literature from Yale University in 1985 and has been a member of CAS for many years. He has been teaching at Wichita State University since 1989. His research interests include questions of syntax and morphosemantics of the verb in Bulgarian, Czech, German, Latvian, Lithuanian, Russian, and Upper Sorbian. I welcome Professor Toops to the Editorial Board of Canadian Slavonic Papers.

I would also like to express my sincere gratitude to Professor John Dingley, York University, for serving as Canadian Slavonic Papers' very first Book Review Editor for Language and Linguistics. Professor Dingley has been doing wonderful work for us since June 2001. Without his participation, our journal would have been much poorer and my job much tougher. John, thank you very much!

Canadian Slavonic Papers completed, as promised last year, a web-based "Book and Article Review Management System." The system has been available to all Canadian Slavonic Papers Editors for almost a year and helps keep track of article submissions and books for review. The work was done by Mr. Serhiy Kozakov through the U of A's Arts Resource Centre. I would like to express my appreciation to him not only for the Management System, but the equally splendid work he did on the Canadian Slavonic Papers Web archive.

The job of the Editor was made more complicated this year because the University of Alberta did not offer release time from teaching as it did in the past.

Finances

The Canadian Slavonic Papers Financial Report appears on the next page. The journal is in good financial health, partly thanks to our continuing three-year SSHRC grant and slight increase in subscriptions. Publishing double issues twice a year instead of four single issues has resulted in substantial saving on postage.
