I'm new to the University of Alberta, having come from the University of Western Ontario where I was Director of the Program in Writing, Rhetoric, and Professional Communication in the Faculty of Arts and Humanities. In my new position here I'll be working with faculty and students across the university as part of the Writing Across the Curriculum initiative. I will also be working with students and faculty in the Department of English and Film Studies.

I am the author, co-author, or editor of five books and 29 articles, including Writing Instruction in Canadian Universities. My current research interests include the development of doctoral student writing, writing assignments across disciplinary fields, and rhetorical approaches to text encoding. Currently I serve as co-Vice-President of the Canadian Association for the Study of Discourse and Writing (CASDW) and a member of the Executive Board of the Canadian

Writing Across the Curriculum

The screenshot shows the homepage of the Writing Across the Curriculum website at the University of Alberta. The header features the University of Alberta logo, the text "Writing Initiatives University of Alberta", and the main title "Writing Across the Curriculum". A green navigation bar contains links for Home, Presentations, Other Programs, Resources by Subject, and Contact Us. The main content area includes a breadcrumb trail "Home > Home", a timestamp "Today: 9/2/2009 10:31:23 AM", and a sidebar with links for C4W, WRS Courses, Roger Graves, Blog, and Academic Honesty. The main text asks if users want to improve student writing and provides contact information for Roger Graves. It lists actions for individual instructors and departments, such as meeting to discuss informal writing assignments and holding workshops on creating good writing assignments. The page concludes with a section for "Upcoming Presentations and Workshops".

Would you like to improve the writing of your students? Improve their learning of your lecture material? Are you looking for new ways to engage your students in your course materials? If this interests you, contact Roger Graves: or 492.2169

What can we do for individual instructors:

- meet to talk about ways to incorporate informal (short, impromptu) writing assignments into any class, small or large
- review via email any assignment you give students that has a writing component to help make it clearer for students and to help develop grading rubrics to improve the speed and accuracy of grading
- visit your class to help students get started on your writing assignments

What can we do for departments:

- hold workshops on creating good writing assignments
- host discussions of how to improve the writing of students in your programs
- conduct reviews of writing assignments in your departments courses to identify exactly what your students are being asked to write—and to ensure that they have access to resources on how to write (online and on-campus)

Centre for Writers

The screenshot shows the homepage of the Centre for Writers at the University of Alberta. The header features the University of Alberta logo, the text "Writing Initiatives University of Alberta", and the "Centre for Writers" logo. A navigation menu includes links for Home, Appointments, Contact Us, Location, Coaches, Resources, FAQ, and WAC. The main content area has a breadcrumb "Home > Home" and a "Welcome to the Centre for Writers" section. This section offers free one-on-one writing coaching and lists services such as thesis formation, organization, idea development, grammar, documentation, essays, lab reports, and creative pieces. It also includes a link to "Request a class room visit by a tutor." and a notice about the Fall 2009 term starting on September 14. On the right side, there are sections for "Express News" (dated 9/2/2009 10:34:15 AM), "Twitter Updates" (announcing the fall term opening on Monday, September 14), and "GramWOW" with a video player showing a person holding a sign.

Welcome to the Centre for Writers

We offer free one-on-one writing coaching and support to all students, instructors and staff at the University of Alberta - in any faculty or at any level of study.

Our writing coaches are available to assist clients with higher order concerns in their writing, such as thesis formation, organization and idea development, as well as more specific details, like grammar and documentation style. Clients can bring in any writing project at any stage of development: essays, lab reports, creative pieces, scholarly articles, thesis drafts, application letters - and more. Our coaches will also help students read instructor comments on already-graded papers. ESL and EAL students are welcome!

Request a class room visit by a tutor.

Welcome back for the Fall 2009 term! Tutoring hours will begin on Monday, September 14. The online appointment-booking schedule will be available to clients as soon as possible prior to this date. We look forward to working with you!

GRAM WOW!

Note the verbs: Critical analysis

- Examine
- Analyze
- Critically analyze
- Historically analyze
- Assess
- Interpret
- Debate
- Consider
- illustrate
- Evaluate

What do these terms mean to you?

Proposal

1. What topic will you study?
2. What is/are the scope/limitations on your topic?
3. What is the context for your study?
4. Citations

What topic will you study?

- Identify a topic of inquiry
- Translate that topic into a thesis by stating what your attitude is to that topic
- In this essay I will analyze how leisure and vice combined to form what have been called “sinful pleasures” in the boom-town gold rush economy of the Klondike. The absence of traditional social hierarchies in this time and place, combined with the fuel of easy money and masculinity, accounted for this new conception of leisure.

Other thesis statements?

What are the limitations?

- You have 5 pages to work with
- What main claims do you want to make in the 3-4 pages of the body of your essay?
- Time? 1890-1900
- Place? Klondike only
- Gender? Masculine entertainments?
- Culture? Approach

What is the context for your study?

- Summarize what you have read so far
- Connect those readings to your thesis
- Identify specific questions that you think you will try to learn more about
- Conclusion—restate the working thesis?

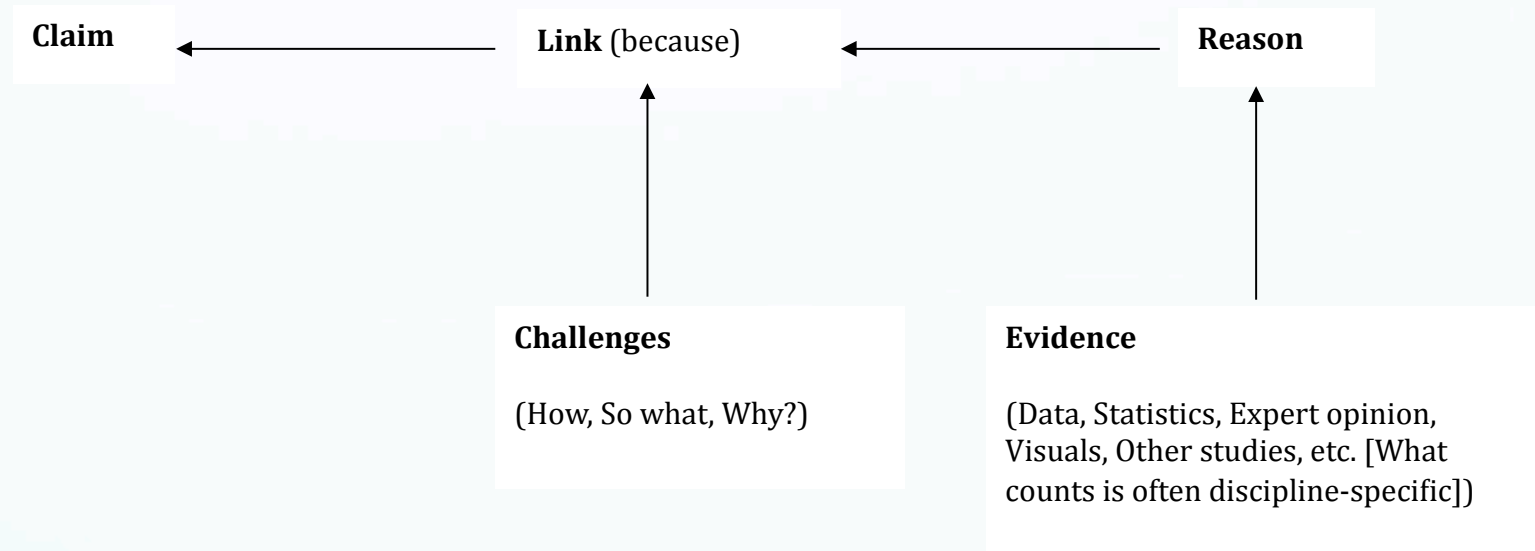

The essay

Structured for you:

1. Title page
2. Introduction
3. Body—this is the area to focus on
4. Conclusion
5. References [?]

Can students use headings in the Term paper itself?

Informal Argument and Academic Writing

Ex. [this study] will be a unique scholarly contribution as very few studies genuinely combine oral history and the documentary record.

Claims and Assumptions

- Claim + stated reason rest upon an unstated reason
- Both the stated and unstated reasons rely on shared assumptions of value between the writer and the reader
- Evidence demonstrates the validity of the stated or unstated reasons
- When values are shared, less evidence is needed to convince the reader

A claim in 3 parts

- By engaging in historical/archival research, by reviewing the vast amount of public information now available on [this topic], and by conducting interviews with policy makers, researchers, activists and industry representatives, my research will develop a systematic assessment of [topic] and the conditions in which it has become finalized.

Getting organized

- Thesis= main claim, argument
The absence of traditional social hierarchies in this time and place, combined with the fuel of easy money and masculinity, accounted for this new conception of leisure
- Body: subsidiary claims
 1. Free enterprise capitalism in the Klondike contributed to a dominant ideological stance that valued the free choice of the individual to pursue whatever leisure activities they wanted—including gambling, drinking to excess, and womanizing—with few, if any, restraints.
 2. Leisure in the Klondike boomtown created and enforced a particular kind of masculinity in contrast to the “rational recreation” of more established cities and towns in the Northwest.

Body—Part 1

- Free enterprise capitalism in the Klondike contributed to a dominant ideological stance that valued the free choice of the individual to pursue whatever leisure activities they wanted—including gambling, drinking to excess, and womanizing—with few, if any, restraints.

Implied in this claim is the structure (order) of the next part of the essay:

1. A section or paragraph on gambling
2. A section or paragraph on drinking to excess
3. A section or paragraph on womanizing/sexual debauchery

1. Introductions

- Often good to write them last so that they match the essay
- Identify the purpose and outline the topic area
- Define/narrow the topic
- Connect the topic to PERLS 204
