About AWE

Arts Work Experience (AWE) offers your organization an opportunity to hire knowledgeable and energetic students to fill your short-term staffing needs while helping to shape your industry’s incoming workforce, preview upcoming graduates and build for the future. By taking on a work experience student, you will also help them gain valuable experience and play an essential role in their professional development as they prepare for the transition to the world of work.

Why Hire AWE Students

Recruit with ease:
Recruitment services are offered to you at no cost. Our services are flexible and tailored to the needs of your organization.

Select from large talent pool:
Arts students bring with them unique skill sets and experiences that are extremely valued in today’s ever changing workforce.

Fill short-term employment needs:
Students can complete four, eight, 12 or 16 months of work experience and can help fill employment needs for short term projects and staffing needs.

Test drive candidates:
Test candidates on a short-term and low-risk basis. Hiring a student will allow you to assess their skill set and fit for your organization.

Access diverse skill sets:
Arts students bring diverse transferable skill sets with strong written and oral communication, critical thinking, problem solving, research, analysis and attention to detail to name a few.

AWE - Employer Information

Recruitment Schedule
Our work terms follow the university’s academic calendar. We generally recommend that employers start their recruitment process approximately 3-4 months in advance of their proposed start date. For September starts it is recommended to start the recruitment 5-6 months in advance as students will be on campus and more active in the job search during that time.

Note: We recognize these lead times are not always possible. Please contact us if you have any questions.

Requirements for Work Experience
Opportunities must be:
- Full-time hours and a consecutive four, eight, 12 or 16 months
- Paid at industry standard rates. Resources to help determine rates of pay can be provided upon request.

Responsibilities of Employers
Your responsibilities are generally no different than they would be when hiring any temporary employee, with the added benefit of a campus contact from the Faculty of Arts. AWE staff will informally monitor work experience student progress and do a follow-up site visit with the supervisor once during each work term. There is a mentorship component to the program and AWE students and their supervisors are asked to identify learning objectives to be worked on throughout their work term.

Mark Soriano (BA Psychology)
Child Intervention Reporting Intern
Government of Alberta - Alberta Children’s Services

“I am so grateful for this opportunity to work with Children’s Services. Through AWE, I have developed a deeper understanding of government legislation, policy development, and program evaluation. I’ve also gained practical experience with data visualization, data analytics, using programming languages in a workplace environment. Thanks to AWE, I am absolutely ecstatic to see what the future has in store for me.”
