The Master of Education in Educational Studies (MES) is structured to facilitate studying while you work: the programme is blended and part-time. Courses are completed in sequence with a cohort of IB educators. All courses are offered online.

To optimize the learning experience, the programme is cohort-based. Coursework is structured to allow you to build your knowledge in an area of IB education that is of particular interest to you. The MES provides you with opportunities to develop educational research skills and apply them in your educational context.
