

Publishing Your Research: Discovering UAlberta Library Resources & Services

The UAlberta Library provides valuable resources and services to support your research. We wish to highlight some key services that can assist you in publishing and accessing research materials.

1. Open Access Publishing:

If you want to publish your research through Open Access, we highly recommend reviewing the Open Access page. Specifically, the section on “How do I publish OA?” and information about Article Processing Charge \(APC\) support. The UAlberta Library has agreements with several major publishers of medical journals that offer FREE or discounted publishing for UAlberta authors.

2. Library Publishing Services:

The Library Publishing Team has an excellent guide available, which you can find here: Library Publishing Guide. This comprehensive resource offers insights into various aspects of the publishing process, from manuscript preparation to distribution.

3. Contacts:

For general inquiries and questions about publishing, contact: library.publishing@ualberta.ca

For questions related to Open Access publishing in connection with the library's licensed resources (including APCs), please contact the Collection Strategies Unit at csu@ualberta.ca.

If you need help finding information, using databases or other electronic resources, or doing library research, you are welcome to make an appointment with a librarian.
