CONTEXT

CONTEXT

Definitions

Gender-based violence (GBV): violence perpetrated against people because of their gender, gender expression, gender identity, or perceived gender. It is based on gender norms and unequal power dynamics (Government of Canada, 2022).

Sexual violence: any form of sexual act (performed, attempted, threatened, unwanted comments or advances) performed without consent (Government of Canada, 2022).

Sexual and Gender-Based Violence in Alberta

Sexual and gender-based violence (SGVB) impacts all Albertans. About 1.8 million, or just over 2 in 5 Albertans have experienced some form of SGBV in their lifetime (Association of Alberta Sexual Assault Services (AASAS), 2020). There is an increased risk of SGBV for women and girls ages 15-24, persons with disabilities and LGBTQ+ individuals (Government of Alberta, n.d.). AASAS reports that 87% of sexual violence police reports are completed by women, and gay and bisexual individuals are six times more likely to self-report experiencing SGBV (AASAS, 2020).

Survey Context

SGBV is prevalent throughout Canada but is underreported among post-secondary students (Government of Canada, 2021).

The Alberta Post-Secondary Student Sexual and Gender-Based Violence Survey was made possible by funding from the Government of Alberta.

The survey had several goals, including developing an understanding of:

- Attitudes and beliefs about SGBV and consent
- Perceptions of the institution landscape regarding SGBV
- Awareness and knowledge of institution supports
- Experiences of SGBV

Results from the survey will help the Ministry of Advanced Education and Albertan post-secondary institutions enact meaningful and effective policies and programs that help prevent SGBV and promote gender equality.

METHODOLOGY

METHODOLOGY

University of Alberta RESULTS

Questionnaire Design

- The Campus Climate Survey on Sexual and Gender-based Violence Working Group, with representatives from the 26 publicly funded post-secondary institutions in Alberta, developed the survey questionnaire.

Data Collection

- Leger Marketing Alberta (Leger) facilitated the data collection.
- Leger surveyed students from 26 publicly funded post-secondary institutions in Alberta from January 30, 2023 – March 16, 2023.
- The survey received a total of 12,948 completes (overall), representing a response rate of 5.8%.
- The survey received a total of 2,486 completes among University of Alberta students, representing a response rate of 11.3%.
- Email invitations to complete the survey were sent to each student where valid email addresses were available. The email links were individualized (i.e., with unique IDs) to prevent duplicate responses. This also permitted students to stop-and-start the survey at their own convenience, picking up where they last left off.

Consent, Privacy and FOIP

- Students were asked for consent before completing the survey. Students were also provided a FOIP statement, and informed that no responses would be personally identifiable, and responses would only be analyzed in aggregate.

Reporting and Analysis

- The findings in this report focus on the results for University of Alberta.
- Throughout the report statistical differences have been noted between sub-segments and the total where relevant. These differences are noted in the appendix where % is significantly higher than % at a 95% confidence interval.
- Due to the targeted nature of the sampling approach, data are unweighted.

Recontact Data

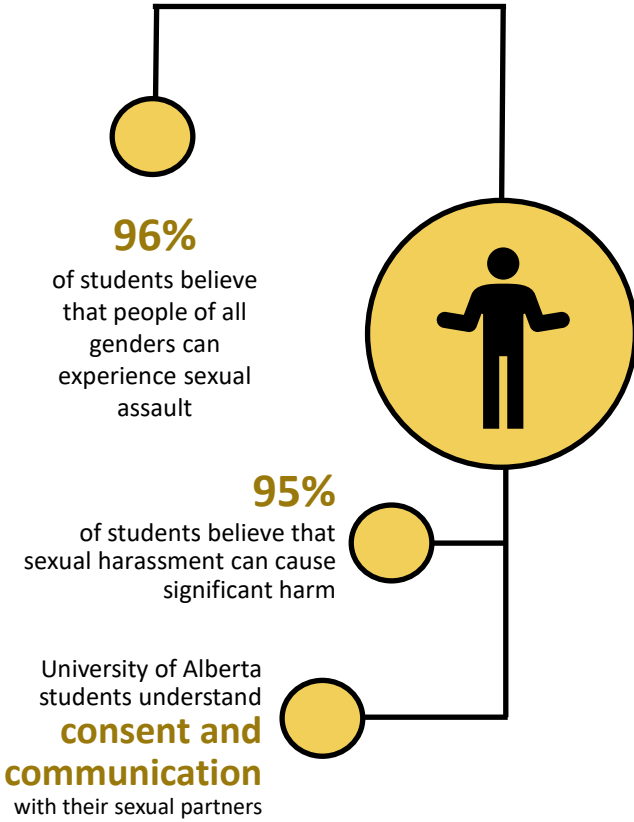

- Due to a programming error, 683 students of the total completes (12,948) were recontacted to redo questions 37-43. Responses from the 123 students that responded to the request for recontact were added into the total data, but the additional 560 were removed from those questions only.

Section 1

Attitudes and Beliefs about Sexual and Gender-Based Violence and Consent

Overall, University of Alberta students have attitudes and beliefs that are well aligned with important realities when it comes to SGBV. Students overwhelmingly agree that people of all genders can experience sexual assault (96%) and that sexual harassment can cause significant harm (95%).

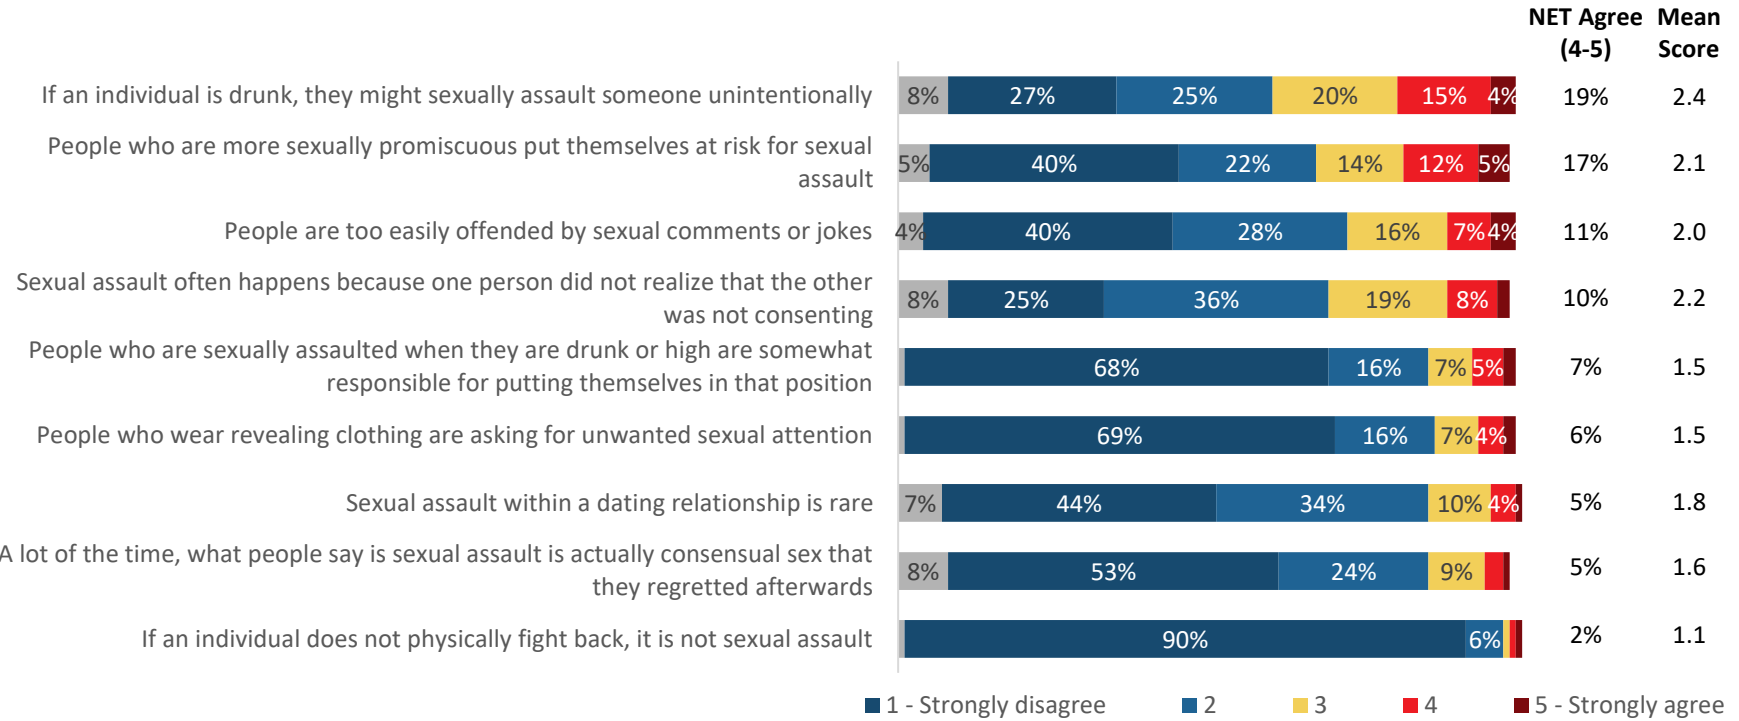

Responses less than 4% are not labelled. "Prefer not to answer" not shown.

Base: Survey participants at University of Alberta (n=2,486).

Q1: Below are a series of statements related to sexual and gender-based violence. Please indicate how much you agree or disagree with each of the following statements.

There is strong disagreement that if an individual does not physically fight back, it is not sexual assault (90%). Areas where there are the most neutrality include more contentiously debated elements of SGBV including drinking, sexual promiscuity, being too easily offended by jokes, and misunderstandings around consent.

Responses less than 4% are not labelled. "Prefer not to answer" not shown.

Base: Survey participants at University of Alberta (n=2,486).

Section 2

Perceptions of Sexual and Gender-based Violence
Climate & Knowledge of Campus Resources and Policies

When it comes to deciding to ask for help if a student were to experience SGBV, knowing that they would be treated with respect, dignity, and compassion garners the greatest proportion of top-3 mentions. This is followed by feeling that telling someone would contribute to keeping others safe and that the person they told would believe them.

Responses less than 4% are not labelled.

Base: Survey participants at University of Alberta (n=2,486)

Q3: If you were to experience gender-based violence as a student, what would affect your decision to ask for help? Please rank your top three.

When it comes to making the decision to ask for help, being believed and that would contribute to keeping the student safe is considerably more important among women, while disclosure confidentiality is more important for students who identify as men.

Q8: How much do you agree or disagree that you would find the following training/information opportunities useful for you personally?

Results of likelihood to use training or information regarding SGBV mirror perceived usefulness. Students are most likely to take advantage of trainings and information about how to intervene as a bystander to SGBV, and how to respond to a disclosure of SGBV and how to prevent and report SGBV.

Responses less than 4% are not labelled.

Base: Survey participants at University of Alberta who rated 3 or higher in Q8 (n=1,830-2,199)

Q9: Now, how likely would you be to attend/use each of these potential training/information opportunities?

Consistent with previous findings, women and gender diverse students at the University of Alberta are more likely to take advantage of various training and information opportunities regarding SGBV than men.

University of Alberta students who have experienced SGBV since being a student at University of Alberta but haven't disclosed it to the school, cite their main reasons for not disclosing are feeling that their experience was/is not serious enough, followed by wanting to move on and not feeling the need for assistance.

Thinking the experience of SGBV was not serious enough and wanting to move on are the most cited reasons for not disclosing to school, particularly among University of Alberta students ages 24 or under. Negative emotions such as shame and anxiety, and fear of more harm tend to be higher in women and those who are gender-diverse than men.
