Program Progression and Timelines

There are two options for completing the MA in Gender and Social Justice Studies: 1) as a course-based degree, which requires 21 credits (7 courses) plus a capping project, or 2) as a thesis-based degree, which requires 18 credits (6 courses) plus a thesis.

The course-based option is the default and preferred option. In exceptional circumstances, students can be considered for admission to a thesis-based program.

You may complete the MA as a full time or a part time student, and can move between the two statuses, with one exception: FGSR requires that students who initially register as full time thesis students register full time for the remainder of the program.

Deadlines

Students are expected to complete degree requirements in a timely manner. However, if you think that you are not going to be able to meet the deadlines set out in the charts below, it is very important for you to discuss the situation with the Graduate Chair and your supervisor. If you do not complete your coursework, thesis, and/or capstone project in a timely manner, you may be required to register in additional semesters and your convocation date will be affected. See FGSR chart of deadlines.

Part-time Study

In order to accommodate the completion of coursework by part-time students, all efforts will be made to offer GSJ courses in the evenings, in late afternoons, and during Spring and Summer terms. GSJ 900 (required for students doing their capping project) is offered during any term of the year. All students are urged to complete GSJ 501 and GSJ 502 early in their programs.

Time limit for completion of programs.

This manual sets forth optimal timelines completion of thesis- and course-based MA degrees in Gender and Social Justice Studies. Beyond those optimal timelines, FGSR provides clear regulations regarding time limits for the completion of MA programs. Thesis based students must complete all requirements for the degree in 4 years, and course based students must complete requirements in 6 years. In extreme situations, students may apply for extensions. If you think that you will have trouble fulfilling the requirements of the degree, please discuss the matter with your supervisor or the Graduate Chair. For information about Leaves of Absence from your graduate program, see the FGSR webpage.

Digital Humanities Option

The course stream in the MA program offers a specialization in Digital Humanities (DH). In order to earn the specialization, course-based MA students will take 9 credits of DH courses, and their final portfolio project (which must entail a DH component) will be supervised by one WGS and one DH faculty member. This option requires a separate application to the DH program: https://www.ualberta.ca/interdisciplinary-studies/digital-humanities.

General Student Information

Course selection
There are two mandatory courses in the MA in GSJ program: GSJ 501 and GSJ 502.

- GSJ 501 Social Justice Workshop entails a weekly seminar emphasizing social justice theory, and includes 20 hours of placement with a community non-profit organization that culminates in a praxis reflection assignment.
- GSJ 502 Gender Research Workshop is a seminar course that will expose students to the wide array of theoretical and methodological approaches to feminist and social justice research currently practiced by faculty members across the University of Alberta.

These two courses, combined with (virtual) attendance at the Feminist Research Speaker Series (see below), integrate students into cultures of interdisciplinary feminist research across campus.

Remaining courses for the degree may be selected from among GSJ courses (at least 6* credits) and from graduate level (500+) courses in other departments. Please note that some departments do not permit students to register on-line and you may need to contact the course instructor or graduate coordinator directly in order to complete registration. Be ready to provide an argument for how the course that you are interested in fits into your program of study.

In certain circumstances, and by special arrangement with instructors, students may take an Independent Reading class or a graduate tutorial piggy-backed on an undergraduate lecture course (as GSJ 500). As a matter of policy, the Department of Women’s and Gender Studies strongly discourages (although does not outright forbid) Academic Teaching Staff from undertaking this additional instructional burden.

Information about additional GSJ courses is available in the University Calendar, Bear Tracks (the U of A’s online registration system), and the graduate section of the WGS webpage.

Please direct any questions about course selection to the Graduate Chair.

Graduate Supervision
Although the Graduate Chair is responsible for helping you select classes to fulfill your program requirements, she does not supervise your research ex officio (although she can do so as a regular professor). The Graduate Committee matches all full time incoming students to research supervisors at the point of admission. You are encouraged to seek your supervisor’s input, with the understanding that the Graduate Chair bears ultimate responsibility for and knowledge of program requirements.

Graduate Committee supervisor-student matches are provisional and can be changed. It is even possible to be supervised by someone outside of the Department of Women’s and Gender Studies. Consult the Graduate Chair if you wish to discuss alternative supervisors. Given that March 1st is the date by which the identity of your supervisor must be formally declared, you must begin to cultivate a relationship with your “recommended” supervisor, and possibly with alternative supervisors, well before that date.

Feminist Research Speaker Series
The speaker series features current feminist research activity by U of A researchers and visitors. Each year’s schedule will be circulated by email and available on the department webpage. Please note that students in the MA program are expected to attend these lectures, and are encouraged to participate actively in discussion afterwards.

Graduate Student Conference
Our first four cohorts organized Graduate Student conferences in Winter term, although the Winter 2020 conference was cancelled due to the pandemic. We hope that Winter 2021 will again witness such an event, presumably in a virtual format. Presentations by students do not necessarily have to relate to their thesis or capping project.

Email contact and lists
All contact with students across the University is conducted via email. It is therefore vital that you regularly check your @ualberta.ca email address. Additionally, you (should) have been invited to join a departmentally administered listserv for graduate students. Please accept this invitation so that you will stay up to date on department matters, including public events and administrative issues.

Annual Report
Students are required to complete an annual report, to be submitted to the Graduate Administrator by May 1 of each year that they are in the program. This report is used for a number of purposes, including award nominations and departmental statistical reporting. The report has been produced as a google form that will be circulated to students by email. Please recognize that this sort of annual reporting of activities is required for all academic positions; your professors fill out extremely detailed accountings of our activities each year. Please take the obligation to report your activities seriously.

Fees
For fee-related enquiries, please contact gradfees@ualberta.ca. Please be aware that graduate students are responsible for paying Spring/Summer tuition during their time in the program. Please consult the Grad Administrator (Gail Mathew) if you have any questions regarding tuition and fees.

Awards & Fellowships
The disbursement of graduate awards and fellowships is a central part of the admissions process. Students entering our program are considered for RA (Research Assistant) and TA (Teaching Assistant) positions, as well as for university-administered awards and fellowships. The graduate committee makes every effort to provide funding to students for one academic year. Funding for a second year (that is, to support thesis research and writing) is not guaranteed.
Graduate assistantships are employment relationships, governed by a contract negotiated by the GSA. They are also a key component of professional development. The department provides a detailed Time Use Sheet to help students and professors engage in a discussion about the work that will be expected of the student, and an overview of how the hours will be spent. These details should be clarified in a face-to-face meeting at the beginning of the appointment with the professor to whom you have been assigned.

It is the role of the Graduate Chair to notify students of awards and fellowships for which they may be eligible, and to support students in the preparation of award applications. A SSHRC (Social Science and Humanities Research Council of Canada) grant proposal workshop may also be held early in the Fall term. All eligible thesis-based students (Canadian citizens and permanent residents) are strongly encouraged to apply for SSHRC grants to fund the second year of their MA program (if they are in the thesis track).

All currently-registered GSJ students, as well as those who have just completed their MA degrees, must apply for doctoral SSHRCs through the University of Alberta. SSHRC awards are extremely competitive, and only students with outstanding academic records stand a realistic chance of success with their applications. Students should inform the graduate chair immediately at the beginning of the Fall term if they intend to apply to a doctoral program, and for a SSHRC, for the subsequent academic year.

FGSR, the GSA, the Faculty of Arts, and the Department of Women’s and Gender Studies offer awards for travel and research, disbursed multiple times each year. As travel on university business is currently prohibited due to the pandemic it is unclear whether these funds will be available in 2020-2021.

For additional information about award opportunities, see the Scholarships and Awards section of the FGSR webpage.

Ethics training

FGSR requires students in all programs to fulfill an Academic Integrity and Ethics Training Requirement. For students in the MA in GSJ, this requirement is fulfilled by:

- The completion of the on-line GET (Graduate Ethics Training) course. The link to enroll in the course can be found at Academic Integrity and Ethics Training Requirement | Faculty of Graduate Studies and Research. In previous years, students have given a printed copy of the completion certificate to the Graduate Administrator for her files. It is likely that this documentation will need to be transmitted to her electronically in 2020-2021.

- The completion of GSJ 501, which includes a minimum of 3 hours of ethics training with an emphasis on ethical issues related to community based research and engagement. Discussion of ethical approaches to research and practice also feature in GSJ 502 and throughout course offerings in the Gender and Social Justice Studies program.

Please note that you will not be able to graduate without fulfilling this requirement.
Students are encouraged to discuss matters of ethical concern that arise in the course of their own studies, or when they are serving as instructors, with their supervisor, the Graduate Chair, or the Department Chair. For the FGSR Code of Student Behavior, see 9.5 Code of Student Behaviour | Faculty of Graduate Studies and Research.

Professional development

FGSR requires all students to complete 8 hours of professional development training, and to design an Individual Development Plan (IDP).

The requirement compels the student to cultivate skills and attain knowledge beyond what is considered essential to or inherent in their degree program, including the research component of that program. From cultivating a teaching portfolio to preparing for careers outside academia, there are sessions and workshops offered by FGSR year-round to help you work towards creating a professional development footprint. Please explore their website at the earliest opportunity (Professional Development | Faculty of Graduate Studies and Research). Note, however, that a wide range of activities beyond the FGSR offerings can be utilized to fulfill the requirement. Consult the Graduate Chair if you have questions about whether an activity of potential interest would count.

Full-time students must meet this requirement within 12 months of their program's commencement. The Department of Women’s and Gender Studies has extended the time to complete the IDP to 24 months for part-time master’s students. Mature students may petition for exemption from this requirement. You will not be able to graduate without fulfilling this requirement unless you receive an exemption.

All students are required to fill out the IDP and PD Completion form.
Guidelines for Portfolio and Thesis

We encourage all our graduates to make their capping projects and theses available through the university’s ERA (Education and Research Archive) - ERA.

Portfolio
Students in the course-based route must complete a portfolio. All portfolios will include:

- a 7-10 page (2,800 to 4,000 word) introduction: a synthesizing document, that highlights the student’s learning process in the program, and provides a framework for the capping project, and
- a capping project: an academic or policy-based research work totaling 25-30 pages (10,000 to 12,000 words), or the equivalent in creative work.

Work towards the portfolio will be supervised by the capping project supervisor. One additional faculty member must serve as an examiner for the capping project, and it is the duty of the supervisor to select the examiner. There is no oral examination of the capping project.

Supervisors should not send the projects to second readers until they are in the best possible shape. Should the evaluator request revisions, it will be up to the supervisor whether to require those revisions from the student; complicated cases, questions, and disputes should be referred to the graduate chair and potentially (if necessary) to the graduate committee.

Thesis
Students in the thesis based route must complete a thesis proposal in their first year and a thesis in the second year.

Students work closely with their supervisor and, where appropriate, a supervisory committee to produce the thesis proposal and the final thesis document. Though the nature of the thesis proposal will vary, the final thesis itself will be an 80-100 page (32,000-40,000 words) document based on original research. Theses must be formatted according to FGSR guidelines (Thesis Preparation, Requirements & Deadlines | Faculty of Graduate Studies and Research).

All theses must pass through an oral examination by a committee that includes at least three members: supervisor, second reader, and an arm’s length examiner. The supervisor will be identified by the student by March 1st of the first year of the program. The second reader will be identified by the supervisor as the thesis proposal is being developed. The arm’s length examiner will be identified by the supervisor when a final draft is imminent. At least one full time continuing WGS faculty member must be on each thesis examination committee, and committee compositions will be approved by the Graduate Chair. The thesis defense will be scheduled by the supervisor.

To convocate in June, all requirements for the degree must be complete by April 1st.
Campus Resources to Assist Graduate Students

In addition to the help you can receive directly from our department faculty and staff, there are many resources available on campus. Some services may be limited in 2020-2021 due to the pandemic, but all campus units are continuing to function. This list is not exhaustive.

Academic Success Centre - offers Learning Resources and Writing Resources to enhance students’ learning and writing skills, including exam-writing skills. The Centre offers in-person workshops and seminars throughout the term, online workshops, and one-on-one sessions.

Accessibility Resources - promotes and coordinates the efforts of University departments and off-campus agencies in meeting students’ needs and provides services, which help to equalize educational opportunities for students. Accessibility Resources serves prospective and current students at the University of Alberta, as well as staff and faculty, whose disabilities involve any number of conditions affecting mobility, vision, hearing, learning, and physical or mental health.

Community Social Work Team – provides a range of financial, legal, and medical resources.

Career Centre - offers a variety of career services to University of Alberta undergraduate and graduate students, postdoctoral fellows, alumni and the University community. They can help students explore career options, connect with employers, write a resume, prepare for a job interview and find work.

Centre for Teaching and Learning - offers a wide range of programs and services to support teaching and learning. With the exception of the August Teaching Orientation, all CTL sessions and symposia are open to graduate students. The CTL Resource Library has a number of books, journals and videos on teaching and learning topics that can be borrowed by graduate students.

Centre for Writers – offers free one-on-one writing support to all students, staff and instructors on campus, in any subject or discipline, and at all levels of study.

Chaplains Association - Interfaith Chaplains are available for guidance, care and support to any student or staff member, whether or not they identify with a particular faith. They also offer information and referral regarding religious groups and activities on campus, as well as marriage preparation courses and assistance in memorial services.

Counselling & Clinical Services – aims to provide high quality, accessible and compassionate psychological and psychiatric services to students to improve their personal, social and academic well-being. They also offer a number of drop-in workshops on specific mental health issues.

Financial Support – is available, including emergency loans.

First Peoples’ House - offers a variety of programs and services to Indigenous students at the University of Alberta, including advising services, funding for tutoring, and mentoring services.
Graduate Students’ Association – represents all graduate students at the University of Alberta. The equivalent organization for undergraduate students is the Students' Union. The GSA exists to help students on an individual and group level. The GSA also offers a Graduate Student Assistance Program (GSAP) which provides all graduate students with 24/7 access to psychological counselling services through a company called Homewood Human Solutions. The GSA also provides emergency bursaries based on need.

Graduate Student Internship Program – provides paid internships for graduate students.

Graduate Teaching and Learning Program (GTL) - provides support to graduate students in the development of teaching skills. Their webpage provides teaching tip sheets and information about workshops, round table discussions, and other activities that support teaching.

International Student Services - is the main campus resource for international students seeking assistance with immigration matters as well as financial, academic, or personal issues.

Institute for Sexual Minority Studies and Services - leads groundbreaking research that affects policy development, intervention, education and community outreach for sexual and gender minorities. It is involved in educational outreach, especially to youth, through the Family Resilience Project, Camp Fyrefly, and the Comprehensive Health Education Workers’ Project.

The Landing - The Landing offers support for gender and sexual diversity on campus in the form of peer mentoring, education sessions, advocacy, and awareness campaigns. The Landing’s office hosts drop in hours, trans meetups, and a resource library.

Office of Safe Disclosure and Human Rights - provides staff and students with a safe, neutral and confidential space to express concerns regarding issues of treatment or ethics. They help identify the issue and make referrals, or help individuals explore the area of concern without formal intervention.

Office of the Student Ombuds - is a confidential service focused on ensuring that university processes related to students operate as fairly as possible. Staff offer information, advice, and support to students as they deal with academic, discipline, interpersonal, and financial issues related to student programs.

Sexual Assault Centre - strives for a campus community free of sexual violence. It provides free of charge services that include drop in, email, and phone support for survivors of sexual assault as well as their partners, family, and friends, and runs educational campaigns.

Student Legal Services of Edmonton - is a student-managed, non-profit society dedicated to helping low-income individuals in Edmonton understand their legal issues and solve their legal problems. The services are offered by law student volunteers, and include advice on criminal and family law matters, as well as academic and discipline appeals.
University Health Centre - can assist students in need of medical advice in a friendly and confidential manner.

University Health Centre Pharmacy – provides pharmacy services and is currently offering asymptomatic COVID testing.
